Like always, Johnsonâ€™s writing was awesome. Love her style. She is a good storyteller and she always creates fun and realistic characters. The story was entertaining. This was a perfect begining. A Cheertastic Christmas Miracle by John Green : Sadly, this story was not as good as i expected. I really wanted to like it more because i love john Green, but the characters were stupidâ€¦ i really didnâ€™t like them. Their actions were completely absurb. Also, i got bored very quickly by this cheerleader thing. The Patron Saint of Pigs by Lauren Myracle i never read anything my Lauren Myracle before, never even heard of her name, and god did this short story didnâ€™t made me want to check out more of her work. this story killed meâ€¦ and not in a good way. The main character was awful. I hated her. 156. Let it Snow: Three Holiday Romances by John Green, Maureen Johnson, and Lauren Myracle (2008) Length: 352 pages Genre: Young Adult; Romance Started: 17 December 2008 Finished: 18 December 2008 How long has it been on my TBR pile? First heard about it from John Green's blog posts about how he and Maureen Johnsonâ€¦ How long has it been on my TBR pile? First heard about it from Nymeth's review that made me dive in less than six hours after iâ€™d picked it up from the library. Verdict? Return to the library, but look for my own copy on BookMooch. Three stories of snow, love, friends, and relationships. I have to say: AWWW!
