Your baby will be waking you up at all hours of the night for whatever he needs. If you have made the decision to breastfeed, it can add another element to your new life. While there may be many strong opinions from people around you, it is ultimately your choice. It may feel like all you do is nurse your baby. This is most likely because newborns need to be fed every 1-2 hours. So in reality, you are feeding around the clock.