Foreign policy instruments are now bundled together, both in the development and adoption of new policies: • The EU's new High Representative for the Union in Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, who is also Vice-President of the European Commission, gives the Union greater clout the impact in the international arena as well as enhancing its coherence and visibility.  The mission of the person appointed to this office is to boost the effectiveness and visibility of the Union's CFSP and to create cohesion among the various types of initiative in EU foreign policy, as well as to ensure greater unity in activities outside Europe at international level. 11. Administrative governance and CFSP Simon Duke and Sophie Vanhoonacker. Part III cross-section analysis. 12. EU committee governance and the multilevel community administration Jarle Trondal. 13. Comitology and the Courts: tales of the unexpected Kieran St. C. Bradley. 14. Tools for the control of political and administrative agents: impact assessment and administrative governance in the European Union Gerard C. Rowe. 15. Re-conceptualising Europeanisation as a public law of collisions: comitology, agencies and an interactive public adjudication Michelle Everson and Christian Joerges. 16. T In recent years, many countries have undertaken administrative reform as a crucial step towards strengthening their economy and better management of their social development. The state is still playing a key role in the change management of nations. The United Nations Programme in Public Administration and Finance, established fifty years ago, has continuously supported developing countries and countries in economic transition in their efforts to reform their public administration structures.