Changing Faces Women's Leadership Seminar: A Model for Increasing Asia-Pacific Women's Entrepreneurial Participation, by Liz A. Dorn and Ann Hartman, in Women and Leadership around the World. This volume explores areas of women's leadership in four regions around the world: The Middle East, Europe, North America, and Asia Pacific. The chapters cover a wide range of important topics relevant to women and leadership within specific contexts around the world. The goal is to provide readers with explorations of women's experiences as leaders, including recent research studies, analysis and interpretation of statistics unpacking the status of women in various sectors and countries, stories of influential women leaders with national or local spheres of influence, and including recommendations for positive change to increase women's access to positions of authority. The volume contributors use various theories and conceptualizations to problematize, historicize, and analyze women's limited access to power, and their agency as leaders from the grassroots to the national scene, from education to non-profits and business organizations.

Changing Faces Women’s Leadership Seminar: A Model for Increasing Asia-Pacific Women’s Entrepreneurial Participation, by Liz A. Dorn and Ann Hartman, in Women and Leadership around the World. This volume explores areas of women’s leadership in four regions around the world: The Middle East, Europe, North America, and Asia Pacific. The chapters cover a wide range of important topics relevant to women and leadership within specific contexts around the world. The goal is to provide readers with explorations of women’s experiences as leaders, including recent research studies, This book examines women’s leadership in four regions of the world—the Middle East, Europe, North American, and Asia Pacific. Chapters range from explorations of women's lived experiences as leaders to presentations of the stories behind the numbers and statistics that reveal the status of women around the globe. Problematizing and historicizing women’s limited access to power, the authors offer recommendation for change that would increase women’s access to positions of authority and increase their effectiveness as leaders. Women and Global Leaders. Global leadership is a

As nations around the world celebrate International Women’s Day, the number of countries that have had a female leader continues to expand. But the list is still relatively short, and even when women have made it to power, they've rarely led for a long time. Including Switzerland, three-fifths of the countries now under female leadership are in Europe. Last year, following the United Kingdom’s vote to exit the European Union in June, Theresa May became the seventh woman currently leading a European country when she replaced David Cameron as the country’s prime minister. May is the second woman in the position after Margaret Thatcher, who served from 1979 to 1990.
