Related outputs

Promoting free flow in the networks: reimagining the body in early modern Suzhou

Chinese herbal medicine for treating menopausal symptoms in London women: developing a good practice protocol via the factor analysis of prescribing patterns in a clinical study

From civilising foods for nourishing life to a global TCM dietetics: Changing perceptions of foods in Chinese medicine

Handbook of Formulas in Chinese Medicine

Holism, Chinese medicine and systems ideologies: rewriting the past to imagine the future

Desires: Capitalism, The Pope and Chinese Medicine

Chinese medicine treatment for menopausal symptoms in the UK health service: Is a clinical trial warranted?

The institutionalization of Chinese medicine

Convergent lines of descent: symptoms, patterns, constellations & the emergent interface of systems biology and Chinese medicine

Depression, constraint and the liver: (dis)assembling the treatment of emotion-related disorders in Chinese medicine

Transmitting Chinese Medicine: Changing Perceptions of Body, Pathology, and Treatment in Late Imperial China

Constraint 鬱 as a Window on Approaches to Emotion-Related Disorders in East Asian Medicine

Introduction

Fei Shengfu 費繩甫 (1851-1914): resolving the exterior to treat fever with loss of consciousness

Defining best practice or cultivating best practitioners

Contemporary China (chapter 8)

Constellations, significations, methods: case histories in late imperial China

Chinese medicine in the treatment of menopausal symptoms

Case histories in Chinese medicine

Constructing an evidence base for East Asian medicine
Comparing TCM textbook descriptions of menopausal syndrome with the lived experience of London women at midlife and the implications for Chinese medicine research

Women's mid-life health experiences in urban UK: an international comparison

The treatment of menopausal symptoms by traditional East Asian medicines: review and perspectives

Chinese herbal medicine: formulas & strategies. 2nd revised edition

Globalising Chinese medical understandings of menopause

Developing research strategies in complementary and alternative medicine

Transforming emotions with Chinese medicine: an ethnographic account from contemporary China (review)

The mangle of practice and the practice of Chinese medicine: a case study from nineteenth-century China

Authenticity, best practice, and the evidence mosaic: the challenge of integrating traditional East Asian medicines into Western health care

Acupuncture for hypertension: a tale of two trials. From the perspective of the anthropologist

Traditional Chinese medicine - what are we investigating? The case of menopause

Yun Tieqiao

Fei Boxiong

Ding Ganren

Contemporary education in Chinese medicine under a strategy of standardization: a response

Chinese medicine and the problem of tradition
Restructuring the field of Chinese medicine: a study of the Menghe and Ding scholarly currents, 1600-2000 (Part 1)

Restructuring the field of Chinese medicine: a study of the Menghe and Ding scholarly currents, 1600-2000 (Part 2)

Menghe yixue xintan (a new enquiry into Menghe physicians)

Ye Tianshi’s strategies for the treatment of bloody stools

Remodeling the arsenal of Chinese medicine: shared pasts, alternative futures

Kexue and guanxixue: plurality, tradition and modernity in contemporary Chinese medicine

Famous contemporary chinese physicians: Professor Shen Zhong-Li

Chinese medicine in contemporary China: plurality and synthesis

Shaping Chinese medicine: two case studies from contemporary China

The globalisation of Chinese medicine

Book review: a Qin Bowei anthology: clinical essays

Chinese acupuncture (Review of L'Acupuncture Chinoise by G. Soulié de Morant)

Share this
Tweet   Email
In 1626, a young man named Fei Shangyou moved his family to Menghe, a small town in the Yangzi delta of China. According to family legend, he abandoned his career as a scholar and began working as a physician. In doing so, he founded a medical lineage that continues to the present day.