"Committee on Risk Assessment of Hazardous Air Pollutants, Commission on Life Sciences, National Research Council The subtitle says "A Plain-Language Guide to Toxicology," and for the most part it is very plain but not always. Sometimes words and terms were not explained, and other times they were just repeated a bit too oft. And it didn't help that the tone of the book is sometimes a bit lecturing. The authors make the point that chemicals are usually maligned by the public and sensationalized by the media. We blame (or at least suspect) them for every illness and especially vilify "synthetic" or man-made chemicals.
