Conflicts as constraints to effective management of tertiary institutions in Nigeria: the way forward

Author(s): Adoga James Ada
Subject(s): Gender Studies
Published by: SciPress Ltd.

Keywords: higher institutions; management and government; school authority; conflict

Summary/Abstract: This study examines the concepts of conflict and constraints and their antecedents in tertiary institutions in Nigeria. It makes a clarification of causes, and types and conflict management in higher institutions of learning. The paper observes that management staff, students, teachers, government. Trade Unions may be sources of conflict for one reason or the other. Nevertheless, the outcomes of such conflicts causes prolong of academic activities, destruction of life and properties and in This study is focused on the effectiveness of public relations proactive in tertiary institutions in Enugu metropolis, with particular interest on University of Science and Technology Enugu (ESUT). The objectives of the study among others include: To find out whether ESUT have good relationship with the public. To examine the level of staff and student relationship in the institution. Forward cooking concerned to producer and offer the best goods and services for the price it charges and make sure that its customers are really satisfied. This implies that the activities performed by ESUT in one way or the other affect those of the mentioned publics. The study also gave an insight into the problem and practices of public relations in Nigerian institutions of higher learning.