This book discusses the Oriental diet and its focus on prevention and treatment of diseases. It includes the Oriental classification of foods which is by their flavors, energies, and movement. This book states that a balanced diet differs for people having different body constitutions and that fruits, herbs, seeds, and vegetables have medicinal properties that can be used to cure common colds, allergies, obesity, female disorders, toothache, etc.
This book discusses the Oriental diet and its focus on prevention and treatment of diseases. It includes the Oriental classification of foods which is by their flavors, energies, and movement. This book states that a balanced diet differs for people having different body constitutions and that fruits, herbs, seeds, and vegetables have medicinal properties that can be used to cure common colds, allergies, obesity, female disorders, toothache, etc. [regime alimentaire therapeutique, dieta terapeutica]. 1992/US/US1992_0.rdf.