The MOOC course in European Business Law is a great course to start with for students intending to apply for the Master’s programme in European Business Law. Even though the MOOC course does not grant credits previous knowledge of the subject is considered upon admission to the master’s programme. For more information about the Master’s programme in European Business Law see https://www.law.lu.se/#/mbs. As the problem is often perceived as involving a conflict between the legal systems of the countries connected in some way with the legal relationship in question, the rules designating the national law to be applied a private international law is simply called conflict of laws. 4:26. An example of a typical conflict rule found in Article Four Of the EU.