Leivik, Oddbjorn
(2011) Ars Disputandi Supplement Series, volume 5, pp. 95 - 106
(Part of book or chapter of book)

Abstract
The article discusses the relation between legal restrictions and moral responsibility in the question of blasphemy and offence. The first part observes some historical developments in relevant legislation, mostly using Norway as an example. Two "humanizing moves" are identified, from the protection of state interest to (1) protection of groups... read more

Download/Full Text

Open Access version via Utrecht University Repository open access

Author keywords: blasphemy, hate speech, law and ethics, Satanic Verses
ISSN: 1566–5399
Publisher: Ars Disputandi: The Online Journal for Philosophy of Religion
(Publisher version)

? See more statistics about this item

Contact Utrecht University Repository: Call us: +31 (0) 30 2536115 Mail to: library@uu.nl

The No Hate Speech Campaign is part of the project Young People Combating Hate Speech Online running between 2012 and 2015, now prolonged to the end of 2017. The project stands for equality, dignity, human rights and diversity. It is a project against hate speech, racism and discrimination in their online expression. The working methods are awareness raising, advocacy, and it also seeks for creative solutions. It is a project for action and intervention. The project equips young people and youth organisations with the competences necessary to recognize and act against such human rights violations.