It also has been the explicit policy of The Bone & Joint Journal (BJJ), Clinical Orthopaedics and Related Research® (CORR®), The Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery (JBJS), and the Journal of Orthopaedic Research (JOR) not to accept research papers submitted or published elsewhere either as a whole or in part. Gender equality in orthopaedics should reflect the opportunity for women to be judged as surgeons based on their care of patients and surgical skills, not physical appearance. Volume 58. Editor-in-chief MARSHALL R. URIST. Section 2 deals with general orthopaedics, and under this heading such subjects as osteogenic sarcoma, tumours of the scapula, bone injuries in very young athletes, and tuberculosis of the spine are contemplated. Section 3 is concerned with the basic sciences and pathology. The most interesting chapter in this section is devoted to electron microscopy of the epiphysial cartilage plate. Respiratory Failure.
