Growing Up Good: Policing The Behaviour Of Girls In Europe

Maureen E Cain

Jock grew up in a poor working class home in Britain, a classic alpha male showing his form in aggression and violence. By his â€˜30s he had made good and was earning millions, mixing with socialites and politicians and battering the woman he had married. He subjected her to relentless screaming, shouting and beatings then intercutting this behaviour with a compelling charm and protestations of love. Adam Jukes, psychotherapist and author of Is There A Cure for Masculinity? a book de-constructing the â€œphallic narcissismâ€ that he says runs so many mensâ€™ lives, has worked for 30 years with violent