The Game's Afoot: Walking as Practice in Sherlockian Literary Geographies

Authors
McLaughlin, David

Publication Date
2016-12

Journal Title
Literary Geographies

Publisher
Literary Geographies

Volume
2

Issue
2

Pages
144-163

Language
English

Type
Article

This Version
VoR

Metadata
Show full item record
The game's afoot! Case 1: The Case of the Poisonous Poet. A serial killer is on the loose and three bodies have been found, one each night over the past three evenings. In each case the victim was killed in the same way – stabbed in the heart with a poisoned pen – each with a grizzly poem pierced through it. What links the victims? What is the murderer's motive?

The Game's Afoot runs from Monday 18th July until Friday 30th September 2016. Ticket Prices.

We were happy to be joined by our Sherlockian members and friends for the first event of the New Year 2019: the Annual Dinner! It was a wonderful evening and it was great to see so many enjoying themselves. What was your favourite part?

My Sherlockian library is floor-to-ceiling shelves on all four walls and at this point is overflowing. Next up is the adjoining bedroom. WorthPoint: Do you mind telling us what your collection is worth?

Hobbs: I have many, many pieces of Sherlockian memorabilia, such as artwork, 3D items, ephemera and other items and mostly these have come as gifts. One thing I did buy was a Hansom Cab Clock sold by Sears in 1960. Holmes and Watson rode around Victorian England in Hansom cabs.