Related outputs

When is mediation mediatory and when is it really adjudicatory? Religion, Norms and decision-making

Stumbling Blocks in Empirical Legal Research: Case Study Research

Interception of communications and legal professional privilege and the rule of law

Diversity and Inclusion As the Key to Innovating Talent Management in Law Firms?

Legal Writing (4th edition)

Access to a Career in the Legal Profession in England and Wales: Race, Class, and the Role of Educational Background

European Citizenship, Freedom, Security, Justice and Equality

Complete Public Law Text, Cases and Materials, 3rd edition

Legal Professional De(Re)Regulation, Equality, and Inclusion, and the Contested Space of Professionalism Within the Legal Market in England and Wales

The Former Legal Director of the London Times, Legal Professional Privilege and the Duty Not to Mislead the Court in England and Wales

Structure, agency and the career strategies of women and BME individuals in the legal profession

Legal Writing (3rd Edition)

United Kingdom: What Robinson v Solicitors Regulation Authority Tells Us about the Contested Terrain of Race and Disciplinary Processes
Encouraging the next generation of legal aid solicitors: the LSC's Training Grants Scheme

Costs of complaining and claiming

Women solicitors as a barometer for problems within the legal profession: time to put values before profits?

Court-based mediation in England and Wales: are judges evading their responsibilities?

A review of how other countries provide information and advice to the vulnerable on consumer and social issues
Webley, L. and Bacquet, S. 2006. A review of how other countries provide information and advice to the vulnerable on consumer and social issues. London, UK DTI.

Mediation through the Birmingham court-based scheme

Evaluation of the Birmingham court-based Civil (non-family) mediation scheme

Divorce solicitors and ethical approaches: the best interests of the client and/or the best interests of the family?
Webley, L. 2005. Divorce solicitors and ethical approaches: the best interests of the client and/or the best interests of the family? Legal Ethics. 7 (2), pp. 231-250.

Criminal records and organised crime in England and Wales

The loneliness of the pro bono coordinator

Legal aid and legal need

Access key in the UK

Equality and diversity: women solicitors research study 48

Pro bono and young solicitors: views from the front line

Quality and cost: final report on the contracting of Civil, Non-Family Advice and Assistance Pilot
Family lawyers deal with a large number of legal issues that may occur between family members. When you are hiring a family lawyer, there are a few things you must keep in mind to make sure you choose the right candidate. Obviously, it is important to consider the exact purpose, whether it be adoption, divorce, or division of property, but there are a few more other tips you must remember too. Research: Before you make any decision, it is vital to do some research so that you know about the top family lawyers in your area. Keep your budget in mind and keep looking for candidates that are not o
Family law is a legal practice area concerned with issues such as adoption, divorce, legal separation, and child custody. Learn about family law and other legal practice areas at FindLaw's Hire a Lawyer section. Family law is a legal practice area that focuses on issues involving family relationships, such as adoption, divorce, and child custody, among others. Attorneys practicing family law can represent clients in family court proceedings or in related negotiations and can also draft important legal documents such as court petitions or property agreements. When mediation does not result in an agreement on all the issues, the family lawyer represents her client in a hearing before the judge on any issues that remain. There are no jury trials in dissolution of marriage cases. A family lawyer may also assist her client with any matters that arise after the judge enters an order dissolving the marriage. Parties often seek modification of orders regarding custody and visitation, as well as spousal maintenance and child support, to reflect changes in their circumstances. In many states, the judge who presided over the dissolution of marriage case reta