The black hand of Republicanism: Fenianism in modern Ireland

Full text not available from this repository.

Abstract

This collection brings together established and emerging scholars, throwing new light on the individuals, organisations and events involved in the formative history of the IRB. It addresses central themes including the importance of the movement's international context and activities, its pioneering manipulation of propaganda, print culture and new technologies, and its crucial role in the divided politics of Ireland under the Union.

Item Type: Book

Uncontrolled Keywords: Ireland, Republicanism, Fenians

Subjects: L200 Politics

Department: Faculties > Arts, Design and Social Sciences > Social Sciences

Related URLs: Library Catalogue

Depositing User: EPrint Services

Date Deposited: 14 Jun 2010 10:27

Last Modified: 24 Oct 2017 08:25

URI: http://nrl.northumbria.ac.uk/id/eprint/1178

Actions (login required)

View Item

Downloads

Downloads per month over past year

View more statistics
It addresses central themes including the importance of the movement's international context and activities, its pioneering manipulation of propaganda, print culture and new technologies, and its crucial role in the divided politics of Ireland under the Union. Item Type: Book. Uncontrolled Keywords: Ireland, Republicanism, Fenians. Subjects: L200 Politics V100 History by period. Quentin Skinner is Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Cambridge. A Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge, he is also a fellow of numerous academic bodies and the recipient of several honorary degrees. His many publications include The Foundations of Modern Political Thought (Cambridge, 1978; two volumes), Machiavelli (1981), Reason and Rhetoric in the Philosophy of Hobbes (Cambridge, 1996), Liberty before Liberalism (Cambridge, 1998) and three volumes of Visions of Politics (Cambridge, 2002). Republicanism A Shared European Heritage volume ii The Values of Republicanism in Early Modern Europe Edited by and. Martin van Gelderen Quentin Skinner.