Surviving and Thriving in Postgraduate Research focuses on the effective planning and management of a postgraduate research project, from the inception and commencement of a relationship with supervisors through to the submission and examination of the thesis... This book has been designed specifically for Australian and New Zealand students as well as international students studying in those countries.
This year’s theme is ‘surviving or thriving’, and the Mental Health Foundation is asking the nation to reflect on why it is ‘too few of us are thriving with good mental health’, ‘rather than ask why so many people are living with mental health problems’ (Mental Health Foundation, 2017). This reminded me of the recent, and widely shared paper by Levecque et al. (2017) Work organization and mental health problems in PhD students. The Forum represents postgraduates in the RGS (with IBG). It is part of the family of RGS (with IBG) Research and Working Groups, and more information on these, including a privacy notice for research group members in line with 2018’s General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), is available here.

Last Tweets. Surviving and Thriving in the Face of Rising Seas. Building Resilience for Communities on the Front Lines of Climate Change. Rachel Cleetus Ramón Bueno Kristina Dahl. Kristina Dahl is a climate scientist whose research, analysis, and communication services help make the impacts of climate change on our environment and society more tangible to the public and policy makers. Dr. Dahl, whose background is in paleoclimate research, formerly coordinated the Rutgers Climate and Environ mental Change Initiative, and served as an online educator for the American Museum of Natural History. The Union of Concerned Scientists puts rigorous, independent science to work to solve our planet’s most pressing problems. Request PDF on ResearchGate | Surviving and thriving in postgraduate research | Surviving and Thriving in Postgraduate Research focuses on the effective planning and management of a postgraduate research project, from the inception and commencement of a relationship with supervisors through to the submission and examination of the thesis. This book has... A pilot study was employed to pretest interview procedures and refine the interview schedules. The role of publicly funded enterprise in Māori entrepreneurship in Aotearoa New Zealand.