Irene Ashton Davies Beazley was born in Warkworth, New Zealand, and spent the past fifty years gaining knowledge in genealogical research. She became an Accredited GenealogistCM with the International Commission for the Accreditation of Professional Genealogists (ICAPGenSM) in 1967. She was brought up on a farm north of Auckland, New Zealand, and became interested in Maori research when she married Gordon Ponga Kingi Davies. She has six children, twenty-seven grandchildren, and twenty-three great-grandchildren. After her husband passed away in 1998 she married Samuel Beazley. She now lives in Hamilton, New Zealand.

Keywords
Genealogy

Biography
Irene Ashton Davies Beazley was born in Warkworth, New Zealand, and spent the past fifty years gaining knowledge in genealogical research. She became an Accredited GenealogistCM with the International Commission for the Accreditation of Professional Genealogists (ICAPGenSM) in 1967. She was brought up on a farm north of Auckland, New Zealand, and became interested in Maori research when she married Gordon Ponga Kingi Davies. She has six children, twenty-seven grandchildren, and twenty-three great-grandchildren. After her husband passed away in 1998 she married Samuel Beazley. She now lives in Hamilton, New Zealand.

Section
Articles

Journal Title
The BYU Family Historian

Issue and Volume
4-1

BYU ScholarsArchive Citation
Available at: https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/byufamilyhistorian/vol4/iss1/4

The Maori peoples of New Zealand consider themselves its First Nations. There is much discussion and much dispute over the question of where they came from. A descendant of Mohawk Nation and trained in anthropology, Patty has researched and reported on indigenous peoples for over four decades. Contact Author. Maori Warrior | Source. Possible Migration From Egypt.

ANTHROPOLOGICAL THEORY. The Maori peoples in New Zealand are its First Nations, the people who first inhabited the country. At least three meanings for the word "Maori" are recorded and the Cookies are used by this site. To decline or learn more, visit our cookies page.