This book analyses present-day vocational education and training policies as they affect contemporary schooling and further education in the UK. It explores the paradoxes and contradictions which characterise the various competing strands of government education and training policy.

Subjects: Vocational education and training; Employment; Policy

Keywords: Educational policy

Geographic subjects: Europe; Great Britain

Published: Milton Keynes, England: Open University Press, 1989