Suicide Unconfronted

ARTHUR KOBLER;

Abstract
Originally published in Contemporary Psychology: APA Review of Books, 1977, Vol 22(4), 303–304. Reviews the books, Duikheim's Suicide: A Classic Analyzed by Whitney Pope (1976) and Suicide: Inside and Out by David K. Reynolds and Norman L. Farberow (1976). While each of these books has "suicide" in its title, neither is about the act of suicide. Pope's volume is sociological, an examination of Durkheim's 1897 classic Suicide, which, Pope states, is best seen not as an explanation of suicide, as Durkheim hoped, but rather as a theory of variation in social suicide rates. The Reynolds and Farberow volume is largely a report of patient experiences in a mental hospital; their special focus is on the effects of "suicide precautions."
